

Dr. Terrence Keaney

Terrence Keaney, M.D. is a board certified dermatologist with specialized training in cutaneous laser, hair, and dermatologic surgery. Dr. Keaney graduated from University of Virginia School of Medicine and was elected as a member of the Alpha Omega Alpha national medical honor society. His dermatology training included a residency at the University of Miami (FL), a clinical research fellowship at the University of California, San Francisco (UCSF), and a fellowship in laser surgery at the Washington Institute of Dermatologic Laser Surgery.

Dr. Keaney is co-founder of SkinDC, a private practice in the Washington, DC area, Assistant Clinical Professor at George Washington University and Howard University Departments of Dermatology, and Director of the Laser and Lipoatrophy Clinic at the Washington, DC, Veterans Administration (VA) Hospital. Dr. Keaney's clinical and research focus is on how gender impacts aesthetic and dermatologic treatment. He has authored and published several peer-reviewed journal articles in such publications as Dermatologic Surgery, Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology, and Journal of Investigative Dermatology. His expertise has made him a frequent speaker at medical professional meetings and in the media. He has been featured in the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Bloomberg Business, GQ, Esquire, Men's Health, Men's Fitness, Town & Country, Fox News, and Business Insider