

Irijana Rajković, MD
Reconstructive, Plastic and Aesthetic
Surgery Senior Resident
Zagreb, Croatia

Irijana Rajković, MD, is currently working as a Reconstructive, Plastic and Aesthetic Surgery Senior Resident for Medikol at Military hospital in Zagreb, KB Dubrava. During her medical education she had worked in different clinics all around Croatia. After her medical graduation she had worked as Management Director for Medikol Group which is the biggest private healthcare corporation in Croatia with 6 different companies. She is founder of two Centers for Aesthetic medicine in Croatia where she works as a Headmaster and a practitioner. She is also NLP Master Manager and Business coach.

She has been giving numerous lectures, certifications and courses in Botulinum toxin, Dermal fillers, PRP, mesotherapy and microneedling for doctors, dentists, nurses and beauticians for several years. She is also a lecturer for „First aid“ and UNICEF Certified Lecturer for Pregnancy courses.

Her passion for medicine can be seen in her thrive for knowledge and dedicative work as well as in numerous courses and hands-on workshops around the world where she has participated in, such as Microsurgery courses, Hand surgery courses, Body Contouring and Liposuction courses, Clinical Facial Anatomy course, etc. She also held lecture at 2nd International Congress of Plastic Surgery “Fellows in science” and X. anniversary CSPRAS Congress.

She was Board member for two years at Resident Section of Croatian Society for a Reconstructive, Plastic and Aesthetic Surgery where she is still an active member.

She is AAAM Board Certified Physician and Faculty member for AAAM.